NUMBER 41

Prime Minister Chamberlain Is Heard

In a 55 minutes address on Tuesday, broadcast by short wave to the various Dominions, Prime Minister Chamberlain warned his listeners to prepare for a real blow in the spring from the Nazi forces of Adolf Hitler. "It is only on the sea that the war may be said to be in full operation," was one of the statements of the Prime Minister. Here, he said British mastery was still unimpaired. The quiet of the past few months on the western front could only be interpreted as the calm before the storm, and he warned Britishers to prepare for a great and terrific offensive in the spring.

Speaking of the attack of Finland by Russia he stated that Finland could rest assured that British aid, which was voted with other nations, at a recent meeting of the League of Nations in Geneva, would be no mere formality. He spoke of the treatment the Poles and Czechs had received from Germany after their capture and now said it was Finland's turn because of the conquest of Russia.

Speaking of the future he said that peoples of the Empire would be called upon to go with out many things, but he felt that if the world were made safe for democracy as a result of the present struggle and the sacrifice that it would entail, then it would be worth the big price that it was costing every day and every hour.

NEWS NOTES

F. D. Merrill was in Lethbridge Tuesday.

Out of 5,911 ships under the convoy system, only 12 had been lost according to a statement of the Admiralty. These were victims of mines.

The Dunbar Castle, a 10,000 ton passenger ship struck a mine on the coast of England as she was bound for South Africa in a convoy and foundered in 15 minutes, 3 were dead and two missing out of the 198 passengers and crew aboard.

Town Council meeting was held last night, with routine matters occupying most of the time. The keeping of pigs within certain areas of the town was discussed and the matter is being considered with a definite ruling likely very soon. In some places this practice is reported to have been carried too far for the good of those concerned.

J. E. Pugh Will Speak To Rotarians

The program committee announced Monday that John E. Pugh, Indian Agent at Cardston and a squadron commander of air force in the last war, will be the speaker at next Monday's meeting. It is desired that every Rotarian be present and that each invite one or two friends to listen to Mr. Pugh's talk, which we are informed by Cardston Rotarians will be full of interest from start to finish. To give the speaker more time the meeting will begin just as near 12 noon as is possible. Mr.

Landlords in Germany may oust any tenants who show any friendship toward Jews still in that country according to a decision of a district court there. Jews are also forbidden to be on the streets or to visit other friends after 10 p.m. They must stay in their own houses. It seems that a war with the rest of the world does not keep the German mind busy enough to keep it from adding a little more persecution to the Jews.

In the last week the soldiers of Finland have demoralized two Russian divisions of soldiers and besides the ones killed and wounded, hundreds of Russian soldiers have died of exposure in their retreat. Finland has captured a great deal of booty in the conflicts including tanks, cars, field kitchens, rifles, machine guns and clothing. One report stated Russian soldiers were retreating so fast that they left their skis and fur boots and fled without them.

Good Progress At New Church

Steady progress is being made at the new Stake and 1st Ward Church House these days as a good-sized crew of men are busy inside getting the building ready for the plastering and the laying of the last floor.

On Monday when we visited the beautiful building, wiring was being done, windows cased, floors being finished, that is the first floor, and the heating fixtures and plumbing fixtures being installed. The heating system is partially installed now, sufficient to heat all of the building, but it is not completed as there is the coverings to go on many of the units and a number of them still to be put in.

The heating system was very fascinating, and from explanations given very efficient one. The air is kept circulating all the time with fans in each heater, when the heat reaches a certain point, ventilators open and cold air is brought in from the outside, heated, washed and put through the building, the stale air being taken out. The system is noiseless, and fully automatic, after the thermostats are set, it operates itself and is a combination of heating and air conditioning system, and according to Mr. Sedgewick has been proven by years of satisfactory service across the United States, and many of the newer schools and public buildings in Canada are equipped with this system of heating.

For the first time, we were better able to appreciate the floor plan and layout of the building and we think it is going to be efficient in every detail. The entire north side of the building will house the chapel on the east end, and the Stake House room and stage on the west end. The stage is 17½ feet deep and the width of the north wing, and looks as if it would be very roomy. The lighting in this part of the building is on the indirect plan, and there are four distinct circuits here. The 17 class rooms, rest room, baptistry, officials rooms and one or two small storage rooms are on the two floors on the south side of the building. These include a large Relief Society room and a kitchen which will be fully electric and will be the envy of many housewives when completed.

Mr. Cannon and his helpers are making steady progress. The nature of the work at the present time prevents the working of large gangs of unskilled men as it is more or less specialized labor. However, the structure will soon be ready for plastering, and when the plastering is completed, then there will be work for large groups in laying the second floor, sanding, installing furniture and what not, looking toward the completion of the structure and preparing it for use. Its completion will see Raymond well provided for places of worship so far as the L.D.S. population is concerned, although with the steady growth of the town, it will not be long until another division is compulsory, and then a new church house will be needed for the one or two wards that may be thus created.

TOY LOAN CENTERS CUT DELINQUENCY. MILWAUKEE FINDS

Probation department officers of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, find that free Toy Loan Centers in high-delinquency areas have brought about a marked improvement in the attitudes and interests of the younger generation of Milwaukeeans. It is reported by Joanne Dimmick in the Rotarian Magazine.

"Children who have sufficient toys for their free time are not likely to roam the streets looking for amusement, nor will they visit the 10-cent stores in gangs to raid the counters," Miss Dimmick writes. "Balls, scooters, wagons, tricycles from Toy Loan Centers take them instead to Milwaukee's recreation parks during their leisure hours." This when there are 15 centers which have made 310,000 loans to 25,000 subscribers, and the attendants at these centers receive the respect and admiration which might be accorded Santa Claus by their youthful clientele.

Pupils seem to study better after a round of fun with Toy Center fun makers, and lessons are learned in keeping track of borrowed toys, treating property with care and consideration. In addition to providing a realm of happiness for boys and girls using the Centers, sponsors of the idea find they foster friendship, forestall truancy, petty thievery, and the inexplicable feelings of inadequacy which prompt children to misbehave.

Milwaukee's Toy Loan Centers which cater to boys & girls of families which cannot afford a variety of toys, even at Christmas time—receive dolls, books, sleds, bikes, autos, tin rowing machines, trucks, bats and then send other fun makers from movies, basements, overstocked shelves of friendly merchants, in-laid organizations, and individuals who have seen the plan work. The Centers maintain their own repair departments and work shops where toys are reconditioned for many happy hours at a time when they might have been thrown away in many a home. Children must register at the centers, draw tags like books at the library, and return them in best possible condition. And they like the entire procedure, the author declares.

Ice at the rink was pretty good over the week-end and large crowds were there each day and evening to enjoy skating.

Reporting on attendance at Sacrament meeting Sunday, the 2nd Ward Bishopric reported that they had 8 people over 40 p.c. attendance, the latter being an aim that President T. Geo. Wood expressed as a good one for the Stake in the Stake Priesthood meeting the week before.

The weather on Sunday was very delightful with the sun shining nice and warm and the ice melting a little. Even since the weather turned colder it has been quite moderate and most of the days have been bright and sunny, the mercury staying around ten to twenty above.

"Any kind," she replied, "except highbrows. I worked for a pair of them once, but never again. Him and her quarrelled all the time, and it kept me running back and forward from the key-hole to the dictionary till I was worn to a frazzle."

Wedding Bells

WILDE — SCHNEIDER

A wedding of local interest was solemnized in the Temple Wednesday morning, with Pres. E. J. Wood officiating, when Wm. Wilde, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wilde, and Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Schneider were united in marriage. The parents of both young people, the grandparents of the bride, besides other members of both families witnessed the ceremony and joined in wishing the happy young couple much joy and happiness in their married life.

The groom has recently returned from the mission field having spent two years in Eastern Canada. The bride has been a teacher in the primary for many years and will be missed in that organization. A wedding supper is being held in the Raymond 2nd Ward Church tonight (Friday) and quite a number of friends besides the relatives have been invited.

The young couple will make their home in the Raymond district, where at the present time the groom is assisting his father in the operation of the farm and in feeding. With their many friends, we express our best wishes for their success and happiness in their journey through life.

Skating Tickets Now Being Sold

Ottawa, Jan. 5, 1940—In preparation for Canada's first war loan effort of the new world war, a National War Loan Committee and National Subscription Committee are in process of formation across Canada, and will be organized in time for the initial effort on the economic war front.

The National War Loan Committee, under the chairmanship of the Hon. J. L. Ralston, K.C., Minister of Finance, will be composed of five former Ministers of Finance, Canada's nine Provincial Treasurers, and more than 200 representative citizens, resident from coast to coast. The five former Ministers of Finance are: the Rt. Hon. Sir Henry Drayton, the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, the Hon. E. N. Rhodes and the Hon. Chas. A. Dunning. The nine Provincial Treasurers are: Hon. Thane A. Campbell, P.E.I.; Hon. Angus L. Macdonald, Nova Scotia; Hon. C. T. Richard, New Brunswick; Hon. J. A. Mathewson, Quebec; Hon. Mitchell F. Hepburn, Ontario; Hon. Stuart S. Carson, Manitoba; Hon. W. J. Patterson, Saskatchewan; Hon. Selon E. Low, Alberta; and Hon. John Hart, British Columbia.

Mr. Dunning has also accepted the chairmanship of the National Subscription Committee which will assist the National War Loan Committee, and will be concerned with the securing of larger subscriptions of a national character. It will be responsible for organizing the work of canvassing the larger institutions and corporations, in addition to stimulating the broader sale of the bonds to the public. This committee will have the active co-operation of investment dealers throughout Canada, a number of whom have already done considerable work in the preliminary organization.

The First War Loan will provide Canadians, as a whole, with their first opportunity to participate in Canada's war effort. To enable everyone to subscribe, it is indicated that bonds will have denominations as low as $50 each for smaller subscriptions.

In announcing the acceptance by Mr. Dunning of the chairmanship of the National Subscription Committee, Mr. Ralston said, "Canada is indeed fortunate that Mr. Dunning has agreed to undertake this important task. His experience as Minister of Finance and also in connection with the Victory Loan campaigns during the last war make him the ideal man for the job."

Two block meetings were held Wednesday night, one at the Jon. Nilsson home and one at the Marion Tollerup home. These meetings are being held under the direction of the Stake missionaries. One meeting was also held Thursday night at the Thos. Hicken home.

SANITY IN WAR FINANCING

Canada's forthcoming war loan can readily be expected to match the pattern of financial policy that will be universally recognized as sound, and one that reflects the benefits of experience from the last great war. Borrowing, in this instance, is a means only of bridging the margin between the amount of money obtainable by taxes and the actual amount needed to pay the costs of a government at war in defence of freedom.

Recognizing the pitfalls of her experience in the last war, Canada, on this occasion, is facing the problem of war financing in forthright manner. Canada's financial machinery has enabled her to set a course at the outset of the new world war that would have been virtually impossible in 1914; it will enable the Canadian people to avoid many of the demoralizing consequences of war, and post-war readjustments, such as befell Canada and many of her countries in the last great conflict.

This war is to be paid for, in so far as possible, as it is fought, rather than to hazard a repetition of inflationary price movements spiralling to an inevitable and expensive day of reckoning. For the past 20 years, Canada and other countries have been paying the price of inadequate machinery, lack of precedent and foresight in financing the last war. Canada now has a broad and comprehensive taxation system and the financial machinery required for exercising the control that is necessary to carry out a policy that will finance the heavy expenditures involved under wartime conditions without giving rise to unfortunate maladjustments and their inevitable aftermath.

In recent years, Canada has pursued a moderate policy of expansion in company with the United Kingdom, Sweden and certain other countries. In consequence of that policy, Canada was able to reverse the deflationary trend of the early depression years and to facilitate expansion in national production and business activity that has been more consistent and prolonged than in many other countries. She has also effected a general reconstruction of her debt through refunding loans at lower interest rates and has repatriated, during the last five years, over $900 millions of Canadian debt held abroad. The net result has been to effect a substantial decrease in the cost of Government debt and to strengthen greatly Canada's credit position.

The new war loan, like probably all loans floated by Canada during this war, will be on a domestic basis. Canadians will provide the principal and receive the interest. The debt will be owed to ourselves in Canadian funds, and will, therefore, not give rise to the difficult exchange problems and real burdens to the country which are inherent in external borrowing.

In borrowing within our country, the Government hopes to see some of the real savings of the people converted into war loan bonds. The latest available figures show a total of 1,731,899,000 of savings accounts held by depositors in chartered banks, the highest figure in the history of the Canadian banking system. These deposits are held in over 4 million accounts, which probably means that one out of about every three people in Canada has a savings account. By converting real savings into war loan bonds the individual can make a vital contribution to Canada's war effort, and at the same time secure for himself a safe and profitable investment.

This is a democratic war by a democratic country, and the war effort in every phase is organized and conducted on a democratic basis. This shows up clearly in the financial policy of the Government in aiming to prevent shifting of national wealth and income to particular groups or sections of the country, which would be an undesirable feature of other methods of financing the war. In announcing its taxation policy, the Government has pledged itself to the principle of equality of sacrifice on the basis of ability to pay. In its borrowing to supplement taxation, the Government is making every endeavour to follow out this democratic principle, and by a widespread appeal to give every citizen an opportunity to make a voluntary contribution to the success of the war effort by converting his savings into War Loan bonds.

The loan is open to popular public subscription. Clearly the call is strong, because the most emphatic demand is the moral obligation of every citizen to guard jealously the rights of freedom and shoulder his share of the bonds just as thousands of others are shouldering arms.

CELEBRATES 58th WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Alf Erickson celebrated their 58th wedding anniversary on Friday the 5th day of January at their home here in Raymond. They travelled 110 miles in the Utah January winter to be married in the Old Endowment House in Salt Lake City.

Residents of Raymond and Southern Alberta for many years, they have always been active in community affairs, especially church matters, and along with their singing, Mrs. Erickson has been organist for many of the church organizations in the branches and wards where they have resided. Not only pioneers of Raymond and Stirling districts, they also pioneered in the Wrentham district, and every place they settled they left their mark in the community, not in the community life alone, but also in good homes and buildings as Mr. Erickson has always been a builder. Ill at the present time from the effects of a stroke, and Mrs. Erickson with poor eyesight, neither of them have been out much this winter, but until a few months ago "Grandpa" and "Grandma" Erickson were both at their ward meetings. We extend congratulations on their reaching this milestone in their wedded life and wish them many happy returns.

A Call TO SERVICE on the Economic Front

"Materials and money count for so much in this war that a resolute, loyal and enthusiastic economic front line may be the determining factor."

W. R. Rosten
MINISTER OF FINANCE.

To your restless question "When can I help win this war?"—the answer is NOW. On Monday next, the Government of the Dominion of Canada will offer the First War Loan. The purpose of this Loan is to provide money to carry on the war, not only on the battlefields, but all along the Economic Front.

Let us explain what the Economic Front means. It means a war in which the entire natural, industrial and financial resources of the country are used to defeat the enemy. It means a "total war" in which every citizen takes a part, in which his personal resources must support those of the Nation.

In such a war, one of the chief weapons is money. Where is this money to come from? There is only one answer. It must come—and come voluntarily—from the savings of our people. The difference between us and the Germans is that we, of our own free will, lend our money—it is not ruthlessly taken away.

This is your opportunity to do your part in this struggle against Hitlerism. The eyes of the world are upon you, upon Canada, one of the strongest members of the British Commonwealth. Canadians must show that their strength, their courage and their resources are all in this fight against "brute force, bad faith, injustice, aggression and persecution."

The news of the success of this Loan must go ringing round the world.

Be ready to buy War Loan Bonds. They will have the proven safety and salability of Dominion of Canada obligations. Any Investment Dealer or Chartered Bank will take your subscription. The quicker the economic war is won, the greater will be the saving of human lives... the swifter the collapse of the enemy.

WEEKLY LETTER

Porous vs. Non-porous
Flower Pots

Flower pots are in general of two distinct types, i.e., the porous clay type and the non-porous type which are either a glazed tile product or are made of metal. Of the two, the porous clay pot has been in most general use largely due to the popular belief that this type of pot promoted the healthiest plant growth. However, repeated experiments have shown that the most satisfactory plant growth is obtained with the non-porous type.

Experiments conducted at this Station demonstrated that the same kind of plants, particularly cannas, will grow from three to four inches taller and will also be thriftier in metal pots than in porous clay ones. Furthermore, the danger of checking plant growth by drying is lessened in these non-porous pots since they require only one-half as much water as ordinary porous clay pots in the same period of time.

In a porous clay pot the plant roots are found to congregate in a white mass on the outside of the ball of earth and next to the wall of the pot. It was believed at one time that the roots benefited by the aeration they received through the walls of the pot. Instead, it has been shown that the roots are frequently injured by the walls which sometimes become overheated or by the corrosive action of the salty deposit which at times collects on the pots outside surface.

In recent years, glazed and painted pots have become quite popular. In addition to the advantages of their non-porous surface, they are also attractively decorated in various colours and shades so that they can be made to blend with the colour scheme of the home.

At this Station, the metal pot has given very satisfactory service. It is practically unbreakable under normal greenhouse conditions and for economy of space it is hard to equal. Nine 6-inch metal pots use the same space as required for eight 6-inch clay pots and when not in use, sixteen metal pots occupy as much space as nine clay pots when placed one inside the other.

Galvanized iron, common one-inch lumber, shingle nails, tinners' rivets and raw linseed oil are all the materials required for making metal pots. The cost of the material varies from 6 to 8 cents per pot. Quite often much of this material may be picked up around the home grounds & the metal can often be salvaged from discarded automobile bodies. As a rule sheets 30 inches by 96 inches of 28 gauge galvanized iron are used. Each sheet will produce material for twenty-two 6 inch pots. The bottoms for the pots are cut out of the lumber in the form of discs four inches in diameter, with a one-third inch bevel and with a five-eighths inch drainage hole in the centre. These discs to ensure a long life are then boiled in raw linseed oil for half an hour and allowed to dry before they are used. Shingle nails are used to hold the discs in place in the bottom of the pot. Two tinner's rivets are used to hold the sides of the pot together. When completed the six-inch pot stands six inches high.

Edmonton Letter

(By T. B. Windross)

Edmonton, Jan. 8.—The announcement made in Edmonton a few days ago that by far the greatest part of Canada's purchases of war supplies are to be made within the Dominion and that the funds to be raised soon by the nation's war loan will remain in the country, adding to the prosperity of all citizens in spite of the war.

W. C. Woodward, Edmonton and Vancouver merchant, made the announcement. One of the three members of Canada's war supply board, he issued his statement when about to leave for Ottawa to take up his $1 a year job in supervising purchase of the materials which the Dominion needs to carry on the war successfully. Incidentally, Mr. Woodward proved his belief in Canada's economic and financial security by making it known that he has ordered a $150,000 to $200,000 addition to his firm's Edmonton store this spring.

At the same time, the Alberta government announced that it has established a trade office in Ottawa, to make sure that a share of Canada's war business comes to Alberta. The action had been recommended by the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce. Sales of Alberta coal to industries in the East will be among the chief objectives, but all types of Alberta products, including farm and dairy goods will be pushed forward too.

The Dominion's first war loan is expected within the next few weeks, the amount & the terms to be announced soon by Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of Finance. It will prevent strain on Canadians which would be caused by excessive taxation for war purposes, and it will prevent any need for reducing the country's living standard to any extent.

The Dominion plans to borrow the real savings of the people, so as to owe as little as possible when the war is finished but to the citizens of the country themselves. Because the country's bonds will be held at home, the debt is not likely to provide any difficulty in the future.

Such a loan is the soundest and most profitable way of raising funds while still leaving the country's citizens with funds and not tax-ridden, for there is no magic means of creating money, it is explained. The Bank of Canada controls the amount of money which can exist in the Dominion at any time, and the governor of the bank, Graham F. Towers, told the nation 11 months ago: "Money is not wealth; if it were, we could not have too much of it. But as it is, if there is too much money you may suffer from inflation—an artificial rise in prices through an excess of money."

As explained by Canada's financial experts, who are among the greatest in the world, the war loan avoids any possibility of reducing purchasing power in the nation or of harming savings depositors and creditors through reduction of the value of money. Even without the benefit of the loan and without added taxation in the 4 months since the war began, the cost of living has risen only four per cent in Canada.

The Debt Adjustment act—the latest version of it—became last week the most recent Alberta statute to be declared invalid.

Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing ruled it ultra vires as far as it includes promissory notes, bills of exchange and other negotiable papers. As a result, creditors do not need a permit from the debt adjustment board, from now on, to enter suit for the recovery of money owing on a promissory note.

The report of Mr. Justice A. A. McGillivray and Major L. R. Lipsett, as members of the Royal Commission which has been investigating the Alberta oil industry for the past fifteen months, still is being awaited this week. Among the most interesting of the suggestions made by the provincial government's counsel in the last days of the hearings was one that Calgary and Edmonton gasoline consumers be relieved of any share of the province-wide distribution costs, leaving all those costs to be borne by consumers in the towns and rural areas of the province. The idea, as advanced by J. J. Frawley, K.C., of the Attorney-general's department, was that retail dealers in the two cities should buy direct from the Calgary refineries, the rest of the province being divided into zones, with the price of gasoline in each being made sufficient to cover all its distribution costs. Mr. Frawley also recommended that free delivery of gasoline should be stopped, the farmers either hauling their own from the nearest depot or paying extra for it.

Calgary and Edmonton have seen, during the past few days, the man who Premier William Aberhart had declared "converted" him to Social Credit through a book on monetary "reform"—Maurice Colbourne, English actor. As well as other plays, Mr. Colbourne presented a play of his own which is regarded as being monetary reformist propaganda, entitled "Charles the King." A semi-fictionized drama about Charles I of England, it presents a claim that Charles was dethroned and decapitated 290 years ago because the financiers cut off his supply of funds. Mr. Colbourne did not consider it necessary to emphasize in his play that Charles was notorious for forgetting about his debts, or that parliament beat the king because it was able to raise more money than he, or that the army finally took control of parliament because parliament refused to give the army its funds to which it was entitled. The moral in history, though not in the play, is that it is safe to cheat only the people who cannot fight back and whose services will not be needed later.

Mr. Colbourne, while in Alberta, refused to answer any questions for publication about Social Credit or about his opinion of Premier Aberhart or the Alberta Social Credit party's regime in government.

NEWS NOTES

W. E. Riss of the Calgary Power Co., Ltd., Lethbridge, was a Raymond visitor Monday.

R.A.F. instructors are being chosen now in England and will be coming to Canada in the very near future to take charge of the flying schools being organized in the Dominion for the training of airmen for the British forces.

All men in Alberta between 30 and 40 years of age who are citizens of France, were called to report to the French consulate in Vancouver at once to receive their instructions. J. Chatain, French consular agent in Edmonton issued the call.

Diving out of the clouds on Britain's coasts Tuesday, German airmen attacked promiscuously the vessels that were in their vision and attacked eleven ships, mostly neutral vessels and small fishing smacks. Thirty-three men were wounded by machine-gun fire on a Danish vessel in the attack.

Red troops have withdrawn from sections of the Finnish front, but Finnish officials fear it is just the calm preceding a greater onslaught when reorganization is effected. The Finns are using the time to cut down trees and put up anti-tank fortifications in preparation for the next wave of attackers. The combat has really been fierce on sections of these front lines for the past two or three weeks and the Finns have made a wonderful resistance to the greater numbers of Russian soldiers.

PROBLEMS OF EVERYDAY LIFE

By Dr. M.M. Lappin

An interesting letter has just reached my desk from a young man. He writes: "I have been in my present position for two years, but neither the place nor the people appeal to me, so I cannot do really good work. I think if I could get a change to something else I would do much better."

Well, lots of folks are tempted to think like that at times, but no change that you can make will ever carry you away from yourself--from your own personality, and whether you agree or not, the trouble lies just there.

It needs something more than a change to transform an indifferent, mediocre life into a successful life. To make a success of life you must first learn to adjust yourself to the environment in which you find yourself. There are opportunities everywhere--even where you are at the moment. If you resent that and tell me there is no opportunity where you are, then I must ask you to think again. You say, "neither the place nor the people appeal to me." Very well, then what is wrong? What ever it is it is a challenge to you to put it right. Therein lies your opportunity.

I am inclined to think if you face up to this matter frankly you will find that the wrong is within yourself. Neither locality nor occupation determine success and happiness. You are only filling your mind with distracting, frustrating, negative thoughts; when you allow yourself to believe that either place or people can hinder you from attaining happiness and success. Rid yourself of gloom and resentment. Banish that spirit of discontent that has got you within its grip. Face life cheerfully and courageously. Tackle

LOW TEMPERATURES DESTROY INSECTS

When outside temperatures register below zero, as often happens during the winter months in Canada, particularly in the Prairie Provinces, it is possible to destroy insects infesting upholstered furniture, fabrics, and foodstuffs, merely by exposing the infested articles outdoors for several hours. This simple but effective method, says the Dominion Entomologist is particularly valuable in ridding expensive upholstered furniture of such injurious insects as clothes moths. Its use may be extended to controlling insects in entire buildings, providing all water pipes, tanks and so on are first emptied of water and other precautions taken to prevent possible damage from the effects of freezing. Windows and doors must be opened and the sub-zero temperature allowed to penetrate throughout the building for a period of at least 12 hours and preferably for 24 hours.

your work with optimism. Bring the best you have to bear upon your tasks, and bend your energies toward making life worth while and meriting success and happiness.

The truly successful people do not try to fit the world to themselves. They fit themselves into the world in which they find themselves. They put themselves in tune with those around them, and seek to establish themselves in right human relations. They trust their fellow men and "play the game."

Change your attitude and put your best effort into your work. Look upon your job as a contribution you are privileged to make toward the well-being of society rather than merely as a means of earning a living, and you will find yourself on the highroad to success and happiness.
